

2024 NYSARH Rural Health Award Descriptions & Criteria

Deadline for Applications: October 18, 2024

Senator Patricia M. McGee Award

The Senator Patricia McGee Rural Health Worker is given to an individual who have made an outstanding contribution of major significance to improve the health of rural populations. The Award was named in recognition of the late Senator's unyielding commitment to improving rural residents' quality of life through legislation which will have a positive impact for many years to come. Her willingness to listen and respond to constituents from her own district, and throughout NYS, including NYSARH events, was greatly appreciated. The Awards Committee will consider broad benefits to health, innovative programs, unusual contributions or activities that provide outstanding and long-lasting benefit to the public's health and are consistent with the goals and objectives of the Association.

Consideration shall be given to all areas of health. Nomination information should indicate that the individual's efforts have gone beyond what is normally expected and are exemplary of dedication to the advancement of the health of the public.

Dr. Gary Ogden Rural Health Practitioner of the Year Award

This award was named in honor of Dr. Gary Ogden, who passed away early in 2007. Candidates for this award should exhibit the same qualities we witnessed in Gary; a passion for life, selfless dedication to their community, organization, and especially, their patients; a strong sense of truth, and the conviction, belief, and action to make dreams a reality.

The recipient of this award must be a direct service provider who has demonstrated leadership in bringing health services to residents of rural New York.

Factors considered include:

- Individual must be a provider (physician, NP or PA, nurse, podiatrist, dentist or allied health professional)
- Provides outstanding care
- Involved in the community

- Making a lasting contribution to the rural health care system in New York State

Outstanding Rural Health Program

This award recognizes a community-wide, regional or statewide program involving one or more health care professionals, or entities that promote or facilitate the development of the rural health care delivery system. If a collaborative effort, please describe in detail the role each organization plays or played and the impact the program will have on the community in the future. If a one-time event that can be modeled in other communities, please clarify those factors that can be replicated.

Factors taken into consideration include:

- Coordination of system services with other health care agencies to avoid duplication of services, thereby maximizing the return on time and finances invested.
- Networking and collaboration with other health care entities to achieve common goals.
- Innovation in the development and implementation of the program.
- Lasting impact on the community, State, or region.

Additional information regarding applicant:
